Amazing Patient Experiences Begin with Amazing Doctors

Our patients know that every time they walk through our doors, they can expect quality treatment from professionals who care. Recovery from addiction can help you or someone you love live a healthy, more productive life. At Neighborhood, we provide integrated behavioral health services for dependency on alcohol, heroin or other opioids such as prescription pain killers. Our entire treatment team works together to ensure the best quality care. Integrated, Compassionate Outpatient Care Our behavioral health services include a range of treatments for individuals struggling substance use disorders. Our programs may include medication management, counseling, group education, and social service referral support. Medication Assisted Treatment Program At Neighborhood, we provide a combination of behavioral health therapy with medications to treat substance use disorders. Our outpatient treatment is for individuals who are dependent on alcohol, heroin or other opioids such as prescription pain killers (i.e., oxycodone, hydrocodone, methadone, codeine, morphine). Treatment medications work to control withdrawal or craving symptoms and are given by primary care providers, physicians assistants, psychiatrists, and nurse practitioners. Research has shown that medication assisted treatments are safe and effective and have no adverse effect on individuals' intelligence, mental capability, physical functioning, or employability. Our goal is to support you to make positive choices to improve the quality of your life! Some benefits of our integrated services may include:

- Decreases risk for relapse
- Continued participation in treatment services
- Increases likelihood of getting and maintaining a job
- Minimizes continued drug disorder and criminal activity
- Improves birth outcomes for women who are expecting

Counseling, Therapy, and Group Education We offer these services in Spanish and English. Our clinicians are licensed psychologists, social workers, or marriage family therapists who have expertise in treating a wide range of emotional and behavioral problems. At Neighborhood, we understand just how devastating opioid addiction and alcoholism can be. We are here to support you throughout this journey so you are never alone. Call us now to get the help that you deserve.
